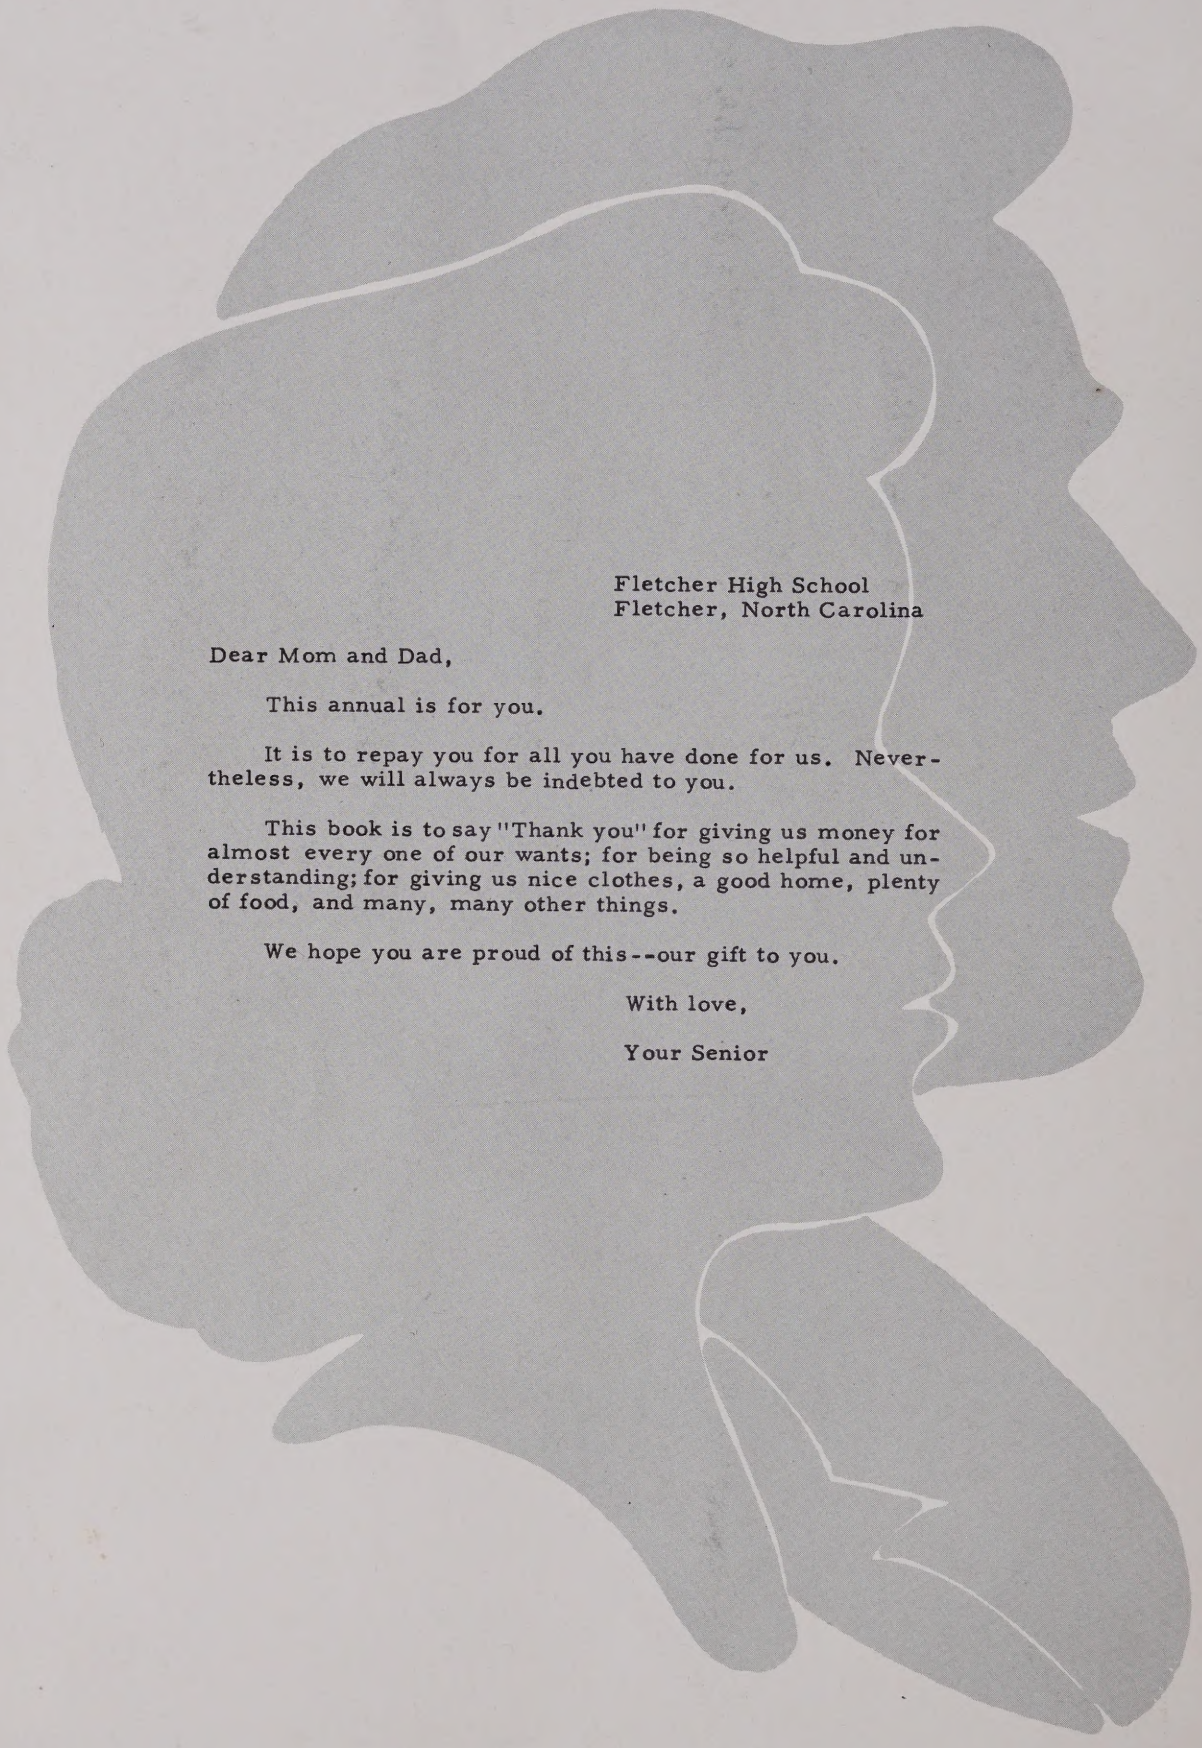
The 1954 Senior Class

Fletcher High School

..... presents this

the third "Chanticleer."



Fletcher High School
Fletcher, North Carolina

Dear Mom and Dad,

This annual is for you.

It is to repay you for all you have done for us. Nevertheless, we will always be indebted to you.

This book is to say "Thank you" for giving us money for almost every one of our wants; for being so helpful and understanding; for giving us nice clothes, a good home, plenty of food, and many, many other things.

We hope you are proud of this--our gift to you.

With love,

Your Senior

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

I, Ethel Wilkie, will my smiles and frowns to Rebecca Silvers, hoping she will use them.

I, Joe Lance, will my place as Business Manager for the Annual to Lloyd Hutchinson.

I, Nita Kirby, will my athletic ways and ability to get a husband to Jean Baldwin, hoping she will succeed.

I, Connie Carmack, leave my big mouth and lovable ways with a few girls to Wallace Lanning.

I, A. J. Cunningham, do leave my peroxide job to Nelson Garren.

I, T. J. Ballard, leave my ability to take teasing to Opal Pressley.

I, Marie Fletcher, leave my quiet ways and attractiveness to Mary Israel.

I, J. B. Millard, leave my love for a good argument to Nelson Garren.

I, James Barnwell, leave my sense of humor and my mischievous ways to Jack Greene.

I, Mary Ellen Bagwell, will my forgetfulness and editorship of the Annual to Ann Suttles, hoping she can get rid of them.

I, Eugene Wilkie, leave the privilege of being President of Student Body to Annie Sue McMinn.

I, Alvin Walker, leave my bashful ways and love for basketball to Duane Gentle.

I, Helen Moore, do leave my friendly disposition and my ways of getting along with people to Nell Rice.

I, Johnny Frisby, leave my sneaky ways to Randall Case.

I, Don Hensley, leave my love for the Navy to anyone who is crazy enough to leave school and join.

I, Doris Jones, will my smart remarks and witty sayings to Lethia Davis.

I, F. G. Barnette, leave my grins and my love for Spartanburg to Taylor Garland.

I, David Raines, leave to Jerry Livingston the privilege of being the smallest in the Senior Class.

I, John Ann Howell, leave my ability to laugh the whole day through to Joan Holt.

I, L. M. Bagwell, leave my artistic ability to James Youngblood, hoping that someday he will become a great artist.

I, Donald Youngblood, leave my promptness to class to Jack Youngblood, hoping he will always be there on time.

I, Evelyn Owensby, leave my blue jeans and pleasant smiles to Joan Wolf.

I, Buddy Calton, leave some of my weight to whoever, needs it.

I, Bob Jackson, leave my typing speed to next year's typing class, hoping they will reach the goal.

I, Sarah Garren, leave my grumpy ways and my prompt attendance to class to Christine Thomas.

I, Paul Guinn, do leave my talent for singing to Martha Watkins, hoping she will learn to sing "Grandpa's Whiskers."

I, Richard Buckner, leave my ways with a certain high school girl to anyone who can get her.

And at last, we the Seniors, do leave, wishing success to all the rising Seniors.

CLASS PROPHECY

Ten years hence, and what a vast change in the lives of the '54 graduates of Fletcher High School! The noted gypsy, namely Marie Fletcher of the Ringling Brothers Circus, was staring into a large crystal ball. Suddenly she saw a dim vision of the '54 seniors. As she turned the crystal ball, the vision became clearer, for the memory of graduation was still on her mind.

Ethel Wilkie has finally achieved her success in acting; she is now starring in "My Little Margee," on Radio and TV.

John Ann Howell, now bald from using so many experiments on her hair, is the sole owner of the Howell Wig Company.

Evelyn Owensby has passed the standard qualifications in baseball. She is now playing with the American Olympics.

Joe Lance became the president of the Eastman Kodak Corporation in Rochester, New York, and drives the biggest, shiniest Cadillac in town.

Richard Buckner is now professional boxer for WBTV in Charlotte, matching with Rocky Marciano every Wednesday night.

Doris Jones is secretary for the Roanoke Brick Manufacturing Company in Roanoke, Virginia.

Eugene Wilkie has become the manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers team, which has won a pennant every year so far. He's doing so well that his name has been proposed for commissioner.

Mary Ellen Bagwell has reached her life's ambition. She is teaching the third grade at Asheville Country Day School.

Bobby Jackson and Don Youngblood have joined their Uncle Sam and are now on furlough. They have been in the Army six years and have just signed up for another term.

Johnny Frisby is now nationally known as Frisbee Marshall, Sports Photographer. With him is David Raines, now pitching for the Cardinals, who won two pennants for them. Frisbee and Raines came together from New York where Frisbee had taken pictures of the games.

F. G. Barnette has gone into the Rummage business. He is now going around the neighborhood of Spartanburg collecting old coats.

J. B. Millard, who hated to leave school, has now gone back to school as the janitor.

Paul Guinn has taken the place of Gene Autry and is now "Back In The Saddle Again," refreshed with Doublement Chewing Gum.

James Barnwell has taken the place of Arthur Godfrey, while Arthur is on vacation. This is more profitable than selling slabs.

A. J. Cunningham now is seated at Miami Beach as life guard. Survives all-saves none.

Sarah Garren is now working at the U. S. Treasury Department in Washington. Handles all-has none.

As Marie turns the crystal ball a little farther, she wonders what has happened to her old pal Don Hensley. Oh! there he is as General in the Air Force. He just inspected his new jet.

Alvin Walker has become a physician. He is now in his laboratory trying to develop a new set of brains.

Nita Kirby and her husband are finally together for good, since he is out of the service. They are building a brick house and Nita is making the mud.

L. M. Bagwell has profited so much by working for his father that he has become the President of the Red Bird Corn-Meal Manufacturing Company.

Buddy Calton has become an explorer and is now being worshipped as the Jungle God in Africa.

Connie Carmack has moved back to Arizona where he owns a big ranch and is now rounding up cattle every day.

T. J. Ballard has just finished his course for Diesel Engineering and OH! watch out! there he comes down the track in the latest diesel.

Helen Moore is really seeing the world-riding the mountains with her new husband, on saddle horses to watch the sun go down.

Marie turns the crystal ball again and again, but the vision has gone. Looks as if the Class of '54 are living very interesting lives.
